

The Use of Clothes Drying Racks at Galleria on Tory Apartments

The online document “Practical Guidelines for Owners and Tenants of Galleria on Tory Apartments” specifically refers that balconies must not be used to hang clothes for drying however the real message of this guide is that apartments’ washing is not to be on public display. By positioning some clothes drying rack immediately inside an apartment street facing window, residents washing is very much in the public eye and the intent of the Galleria on Tory Apartments rule is not being complied with. I would request going forward that when using clothes drying rack, they are placed well back into living rooms so they remain unseen from the street.

I do trust that you understand that these rules are in place to maintain the aesthetics, quality and desirability as a place to live for all residents, as well as set a good impression for those that are being shown the property as future tenants. I do look forward to not seeing washing from the street in future.

The “Practical Guidelines for Owners and Tenants of Galleria on Tory Apartments” relating to living in the Galleria on Tory Apartments complex, should have been included in your tenancy pack at the beginning of your tenancy and talked through by your property manager or landlord.
